Maria Schnee und der Rosengarten

Abb 1: “Ritten, Tirol: Oberbozen – Maria Schnee mit dem Rosengarten”, Ansichtskarte, Anfang 20. Jahrhundert.

Maria Schnee vom Westen her, dort wo heute das Malinowskihaus steht, fotografiert, auch damit die fotogene Rosengartengruppe mit auf die Glasplatte gebannt wird. Ganz links erkennt man den Gartenpavillon im Wegerpark, nach rechts zunächst die Kirche Maria Schnee, die Villa Kinsele, das Wohngebäude des Unterhofers (später Hotel Hofer, Hotel Friedl und zuletzt Hotel Post) und ganz zum Schluss jenes des Doppelbauern (zuletzt Hotel Viktoria) mit einen kleinen Teil des Stadeldaches. Auf seiner Nordseite steht eine mächtige Lärche, welche sogar in der Literatur Hans v. Hoffensthals Eingang gefunden hat: “…

zunächst den paar Häusern von Maria Schnee, Luisl's Vaterhaus, neben dem die kleine Kirche hockte, die Höfe vom Doppelbauer und vom Hofer, dieser mit ein paar zausigen Albern, jener mit einer alten Lärche, jeder aber mit einer von moosigem Stroh bedachten Scheune. …"

Eine sehr frühe Aufnahme, mindestens ein Jahrzehnt vor der Eröffnung der Rittnerbahn, als die Welt in Oberbozen laut obigen Autor noch in Ordnung war. Als Basis meiner Zeiteinschätzung dient die Beobachtung, dass unser Haus noch nicht den Außenkamin aufweist, der notwendig wurde, als Franz Kinsele Ende der 1890er Jahre einen Kachelofen in der hinteren Kammer einbauen ließ. Ein weiteres Indiz für die vortouristische Zeit ist das weitgehende Fehlen von Zäunen. Die mit dem Bahnbau einsetzende Parzellierung der Grundstücke für den Bau der Villen hat noch nicht stattgefunden, in Maria Schnee sind die Grundstücke noch fast ausschließlich landwirtschaftlich genutzt und auf den Unterhofer, den Oberhofer und dem Doppelbauer aufgeteilt. Auf der rechten Hälfte ist eine Acker sichtbar; im Mittelgebirge dominierte nämlich im Gegensatz zu heute der Getreideanbau, das Landschaftsbild war entsprechend vielfältiger. Vergrößert man das Bild, so erkennt man vor dem Kirchlein das große, noch frei stehende Wegkreuz und einen Weg, den Beginn des heutigen Sommerfrischweges Richtung St. Magdalena und Maria Himmelfahrt.
