Der Geyerer einst und jetzt

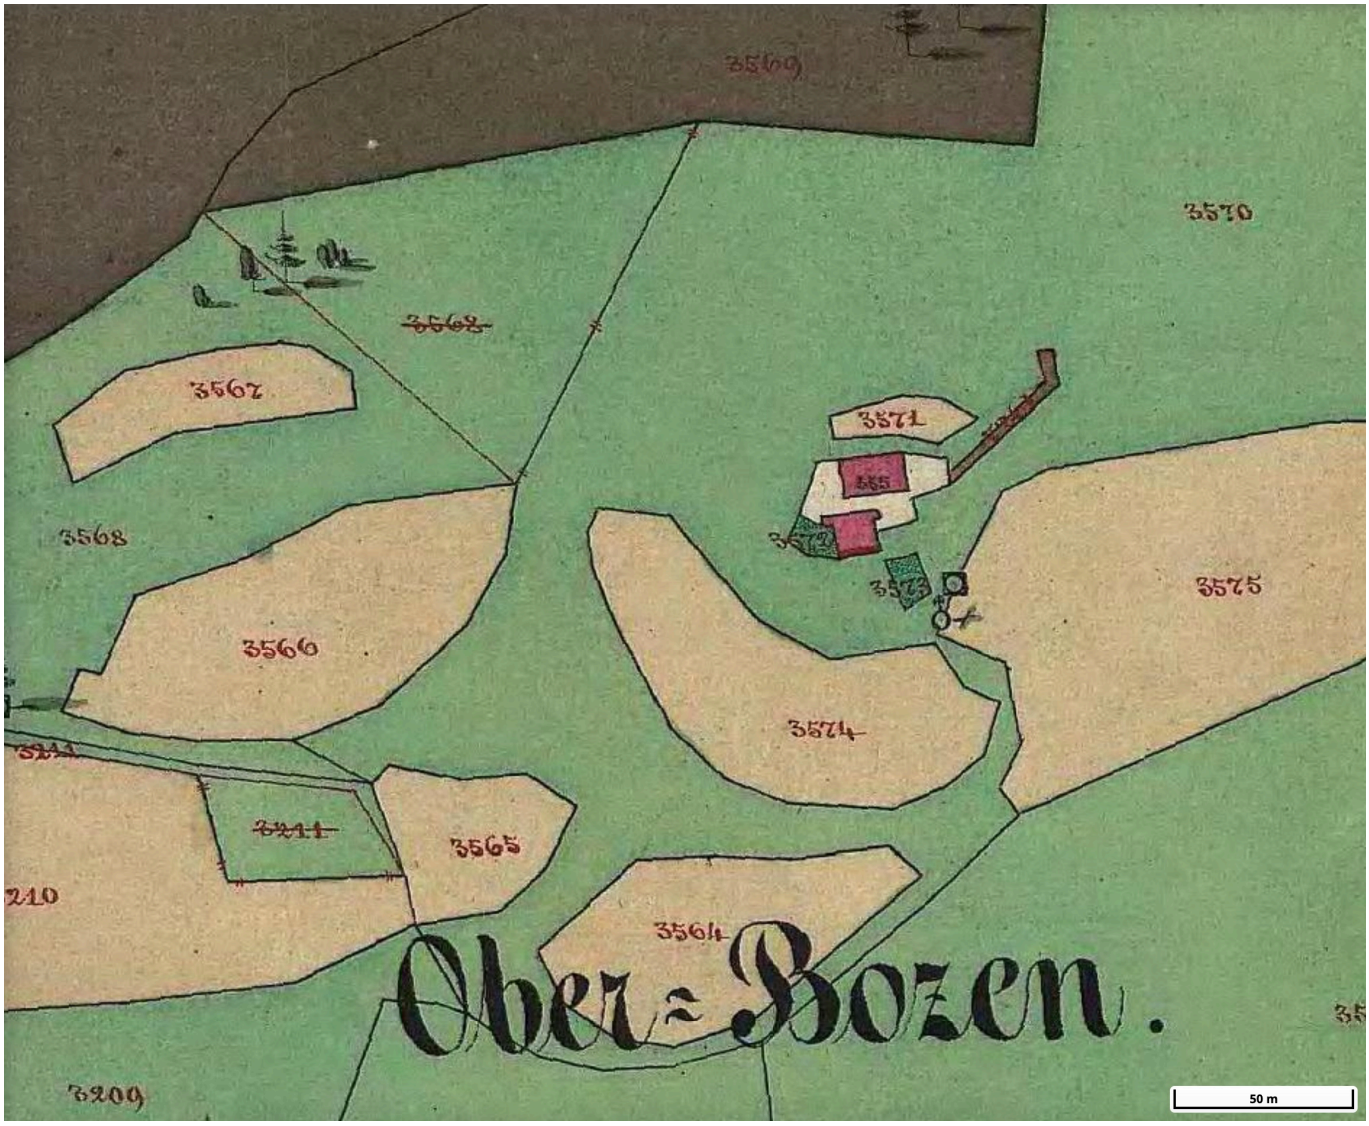

Abb. 1: “IL BELL’ALTO ADIGE Motivo sul RENON presso Bolzano” Ansichtskarte, Zwischenkriegszeit, Sammlung Kobler.

Der Geyerer (Abb. 1 und 2), heute Geyrer geschrieben, ist mit seinen 1.330 m Seehöhe der höchstgelegene Hof Oberbozens. Schon deshalb wurde er mit dem Aufkommen des Tourismus gerne als Aussichtsort besucht, später auch als Startpunkt von Rodel- und Skiabfahrten. Aus dieser Zeit dürfte auch die Errichtung eines Gasthauses an der Hofstelle stammen, das mehrmals in den Zeitungen der damaligen Epoche erwähnt wird.

Abb.3: Die Hofstelle und die Umgebung 1858 und 2023 (Geo-Browser Südtirol). Die Pfeilrichtung gibt den ungefähren Blickwinkel des Fotografen der Abbildungen 1 und 2 wider.

Auffallend ist, wie weit verbreitet der Ackerbau früher in diesen Höhenlagen war. Die vielen hellen Flecken in der Karte von 1858 (Abb. 2) zeugen davon. Anfang der 70er Jahre (aus meiner Erinnerung, bitte im Fall korrigieren) wurde der Geyerer, als er schon im Eigentum des Hoferbauern war, ein Raub der Flammen. Es erfolgte ein Wiederaufbau mit einer starken Ausrichtung zu Hotelbetrieb. Der beliebte Spazierweg, der am Hof vorbei Richtung Kaseracker führte (Abb. 5), wurde in der Folge zum allgemeinen Bedauern gesperrt.

Abb. 4: An der Viehtränke hinter der Hofstelle des Geyerers (Foto sehr wahrscheinlich von Lori oder Robert Kinsele, anfangs 20. Jahrhundert).

Abb. 5: An der Viehtränke hinter der Hofstelle des Geyerers. Im Hintergrund der Weg, der zum Kaseracker führt (Foto sehr wahrscheinlich von Lori oder Robert Kinsele, anfangs 20. Jahrhundert).

Die in der Villa Kinsele gefundenen Fotos, die vermutlich von Robert oder Eleonore Kinsele aufgenommen wurden, enthalten leider keine Orts- und Datumsangaben. Aus Kindheitserinnerungen heraus habe ich die Bilder mit der mir gut im Gedächtnis gebliebenen, auffallend langen überdachten Viehtränke dem Geyererhof zugeordnet. Thomas Fink aus Oberbozen hat die Bilder den früheren Pächtern des Hofes gezeigt, welche meine Vermutung bestätigten.
